

Assert Probe Of Jap Attack Will Continue For Long Time

By JACK BELL

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—Members of a Senate-House Inquiry committee agreed today that the Pearl Harbor investigation will go on for a long, long time and conceded they don't know where they will get a new counsel.

The committee's present chief counsel, William D. Mitchell, has announced he is resigning because an end to the probe is not in sight. Mitchell said he and his staff plan to quit by early January. This left up in the air presentation of what he described as "pertinent evidence that has never been produced at any previous inquiry about Pearl Harbor."

Doubt Barkley Action

Chairman Barkley (D-Ky) told reporters there is no use arguing with Mitchell or any of his staff. He said they mean to quit. Further, he is thinking of doing the same.

Other committee members who didn't want to be quoted by name discounted the possibility that Barkley would withdraw from the scene.

The chairman, who also is Senate majority leader, said a heavy legislative program after the first of the year would demand his attention and he would have to weigh in the next few days where his chief responsibility lies.

Rep. Keefe (R-Wis) suggested to reporters that the committee go ahead without counsel, if necessary. But Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said he didn't think that would work.

Senator Brewster (R-Me) said he would propose Hugh Fulton, former counsel for the Senate War Investigating committee, as Mitchell's successor. Barkley was known to oppose this, although he said he had "no idea" where a man could be found to take over.

"Pettifogging"

Committee members agreed that hearings won't end January 3, as originally planned. Mitchell said 60 witnesses remain to be examined. He noted that only eight had completed their testimony in a month of hearings.

Mitchell complained in a formal statement he read to the committee yesterday that some committee members had widened the scope of the investigation.

Rep. Clark (D-NC) said "I don't blame him a bit for quitting," adding that some of the questioning "ranks close to pettifogging."

Ferguson held the questioner's seat today as Lt. Gen. L. T. Gerow, former head of the War Plans Division of the War Department, was recalled to the stand.

RICE DECLINES CHAIRMANSHIP

Harrisburg, Dec. 15 (AP)—Col. Philip H. Matthews, of Carlisle, and Frank McNamee, of Philadelphia, today headed a list of seven suggested by party leaders to replace David L. Lawrence as Democratic State Chairman.

The names of Matthews, former WPA Administrator, and McNamee, former Deputy War Manpower Commissioner, both businessmen, were offered at a meeting of more than a score of top-ranking Democrats held in advance of the State Committee meeting next Wednesday.

The group will meet again next Tuesday night, one leader said, to "cut down the list" and possibly agree on one name for presentation to the committee the following day.

Others suggested at the meeting yesterday to succeed Lawrence, who will resign to become Mayor of Pittsburgh, were:

Rep. Hiram G. Andrews, Cambria, House Minority Leader; former State Senator John S. Rice of Adams County; Senator Joseph Barr, of Allegheny County; John J. Kane, Allegheny County Commissioner; and James J. Law, Luzerne County Democratic Chairman.

Rice, Barr and Kane practically have been eliminated by the pressure of other duties, he added, explaining Rice hopes to give most of his time to his Adams County business interests, Kane to his duties as Allegheny County Commissioner, and Barr is needed by the Allegheny organization.

Matthews and McNamee were the only ones of the seven suggested who were absent from the meeting. Several leaders present were instructed to sound them out and report back next week on their availability.

DR. R. MARSHALL CLAIMS ATOMIC BOMB NO SECRET

The fiction about the "atomic bomb secret" was blasted Friday evening by Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of the Fels planetarium of the Franklin Institute at Philadelphia, in an address at the annual banquet of the stockholders of the First National bank at the Hotel Gettysburg.

"The atomic bomb 'secret' is a secret everybody knows," Doctor Marshall declared. "Almost anybody can cook up an atomic bomb. Germany knew exactly how to do it and so did every other major nation before we used the bombs against Japan."

atomic bomb but the British Isles were too vulnerable to enemy bombing attacks to permit large scale scientific operations involved. The only reason that Germany didn't produce the bomb first was that she was too badly bombed to be able to carry on such operations.

Reds To Have Bomb

"In the United States we could work without the threat of enemy bombing, and other Allied nations sent their best scientific 'brains' here to help rush the atomic research."

"Russia can and no doubt soon will produce an atomic bomb and the United States is going to get a frightful shock one of these days when the Russians invite news and military men to the steppes of Russia to witness the first atomic bomb demonstration by Russians. We've got to stop this prattling about keeping a secret that we don't possess—it isn't a secret when everybody else knows it," he continued. "The fundamental knowledge about the atomic bomb has been in textbooks and physics laboratories for some years."

"Scientists aren't nearly as much worried about the atomic bomb as they are about the ridiculous way in which politicians in this country are handling it. Obviously the United Nations charter is too flimsy to hold the atomic bomb and it's high time to do something about it," he declared. He attacked the "folly" of the present United States foreign policy which has this nation "playing power politics alone."

Doctor Marshall opened his address with a disclosure of the possibility of congressional action limiting scientific research and discussion on atomic energy creating "scientific refugees" from this nation with the result that scientific investigators will have to go to other countries to work. He attacked the May-Johnson bill, passed by the House and now in process of Senate hearings, as proposing flagrant violations of American principles. "It would make a Gestapo out of the FBI and would put scientists and their work under government control," he said.

Helped to Win War

Pointing out that scientists stopped their professional work during the war and devoted their full energies toward aiding victory, he asserted: "We all stopped our regular professional work for war but we won't be regulated in peace."

He labelled much of the current talk about the atomic bomb as "pure nonsense or downright lies." He referred briefly to the great promise for peaceful uses of atomic energy and mentioned specially medical possibilities. He said that before the war cure of cancer cases had been achieved with radioactive substances.

Doctor Marshall traced the history of scientific investigation of radioactive substances since the discovery of uranium radiations in 1896, the year after x-rays were discovered. He made special mention of the work of Mme. Curie in discovering radium. "We don't know the 'why' of radioactivity but we have built up a picture of how the atom looks inside and we know something about its behaviour. The atomic bomb is simply the extraction of a great amount of energy from atoms in a very short term."

He described the probable and essential features of the atomic bombs used against the Japs and said that only about one percent of the material in the bomb "went off."

"Price of Peace"

Calling for an intelligent foreign policy that would involve economic concessions to foreign countries as "the price of peace," Doctor Marshall concluded: "Peace is worth paying for. Do all you can to think peace, talk peace and practice peace. If you don't want it, then don't do anything about it—and we won't have peace."

Dr. Coble Will Be Speaker For Lions

The Rev. Dr. O. D. Coble, Bendersville Lutheran pastor, will be the speaker for the weekly dinner meeting of the Gettysburg Lions club Monday evening. Doctor Coble, for nearly five years an army chaplain in World War II, will tell about "Last Christmas in Belgium."

The club's annual booklet, which this year is dedicated to the memory of William A. Beales, has just been issued. "Bill" Beales, a member of the club since 1933, was killed during a Jap bombing raid on Iwo Jima. A former president of the club, he served as chairman and a member of the club's committee for the blind for a number of years. He took an active part in many other community projects sponsored by the club.

JUDGE SHEELY IS HONORED BY JUDICIAL GROUP

Judge W. C. Sheely was elected to membership on the executive committee of the Pennsylvania Council of Juvenile Court Judges at that organization's fifth annual meeting at Harrisburg Friday. Judge Charles L. Brown, Philadelphia, was elected president.

The Juvenile Court Judges returned to their benches throughout the state today after approving resolutions on juvenile delinquency problems that:

(1) Criticized the Commonwealth's purchase of the Kis-Lyn school for boys in Luzerne county, contending it merely transferred jurisdiction of the school from the county to the state and did not actually increase available facilities for delinquent boys.

(2) Asked the Department of Welfare to establish an institution for delinquent girls, pointing out there is an "urgent need" for such an institution.

Hear Governor Martin

(3) Disapproved of any change in the law which would free adults of responsibility in connection with their contribution to minor delinquency.

(4) Provided for the establishment of a committee to study the need of a classification center for delinquent children which would be used by experts to study a "problem child" before a juvenile court would make final disposition of a case involving an erring child.

The judges were told by Governor Martin that parents must take a direct part in curbing juvenile delinquency by closely supervising all of their children's activities. "One thing that has to be done if we are to reduce juvenile delinquency is to strengthen the home ties," he said.

GEN. MARSHALL OFF FOR CHINA

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall left the capital at 9:08 a. m., today by plane for his new diplomatic post in China. High-ranking military and diplomatic figures were on hand to see him off, including the Chinese Ambassador, Dr. Wei Tuo-Ming, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff.

Accompanying the general to the Orient was a military attaché, Col. Henry A. Byroade, and State Department aide, James R. Shepley. The general is expected to reach Chungking about the middle of next week.

Marshall carried with him to Chungking a directive on U. S. policy on China. He takes there a job that has stumped others—the unification of China.

The outline of this U. S. policy, given him by President Truman, will be released by publication tomorrow.

Predicts Rocket Ships To Moon

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (AP)—Atomic rocket ships traveling at a speed 25,000 or more miles an hour may reach the moon "in my life-time," says Commander Moulton B. Taylor, officer in charge of pilotless aircraft development for the navy at Johns-ville, Pa.

Commander Taylor, of Longview, Washington, told reporters yesterday that after discussions with American and German scientists he believed "atomic energy is destined to provide the requisite power to make practical the long-awaited journey."

"The German V-1 and V-2 bombs may prove to be the forerunners of projectiles which will rocket to the moon at incredible speed," he declared. Atomic energy, Cmdr. Taylor said, may be just the source of the "initial thrust" necessary in launching such a projectile.

Return trips, he said, would not be difficult, adding that a system of brakes would be needed to resist the earth's attraction.

PHOTO EXHIBIT IN LOCAL BANK NEXT FEBRUARY

The Adams County Photographic Exhibit of 1946, which will be open to all amateur photographers living in Adams county, will be conducted in the Gettysburg National bank from February 8 to 16, it was announced today.

The exhibit, which may become an annual event, is being sponsored by the Gettysburg Photographic society and the Gettysburg National bank.

The only requirement placed upon prints to be entered in the show is that they be taken by the exhibitor. It is not required that they be developed and printed by the exhibitor.

Prints of any size, either mounted or unmounted, will be accepted. No hand-tinted prints will be accepted but prints of regular color photography may be entered. Kodachrome slides, however, will not be accepted.

Every amateur photographer in the county who enters prints will be eligible for awards excepting members of the Gettysburg Photographic society.

The prints will not be entered or judged by classes or subjects but will be rated upon photographic merit alone. Pictures may be of any type of subject—portraits, landscapes, animals, still life, storytelling pictures or any other type.

Prints will be received at the bank from January 14 to Monday, January 23, inclusive.

The judging of the prints will take place between January 28 and the day the display is thrown open to the public, February 8. The awards will be ribbons rather than cash prizes in line with the general practice followed by photographic exhibitions throughout the country. The ribbons will indicate the winners.

The judging of the prints will be done by members of the Gettysburg Photographic society. The judges will not know the identity of the exhibitors at the time of the judging. All pictures entered in the display will be returned to the exhibitors at the close of the show.

First Of Its Kind Here

The exhibit will be the first display of its kind ever presented in this county. Several years ago the local Photographic society displayed a number of its members' prints at the Gettysburg National bank in connection with the bank's annual apple show.

The Photographic society will have a separate display of its own prints at the February show. That collection of pictures will be entirely separate from the amateur display. The society members' display will not be judged.

COUNTY LIBRARY RENEWS APPEAL FOR MORE BOOKS

Acknowledging a gift of 500 children's books this week, second largest single donation of books yet received, Miss Kathryn Oiler, Adams county librarian, today renewed an earlier appeal to the public for more books for use in the main reading room here, in the branches to be opened in various county communities by local units of the library association and for distribution by bookmobile.

The 500 books for children just received had formed the "Rural School Library" at the county superintendent's office and had been built up in the last several years under the sponsorship of the county Federation of Women's clubs. The collection includes the best in the field of children's literature, both classical and modern, Miss Oiler said.

The largest donation of books yet received by the county library, which is scheduled to be opened to the public the first Saturday in January, came from the Gettysburg YWCA which turned over its complete library collection.

Employ Library Assistant

As Miss Oiler spoke of the need for still more books for the library, which now has more than 4,000 volumes, she said: "The response to former appeals has been grand but we need many more books and I believe there are many more persons in the county who will be willing to help."

"There are several other items we need badly for the library: a wall coat rack and an umbrella stand. We would also like to find an office desk for the use of the librarian. This item could be on a loan basis as a new one has been ordered but no one knows when it will come."

Miss Oiler also announced today that Miss Edith Carbaugh, 71 Steinwehr avenue, has been employed as a library assistant and will begin her duties at the county library on January 15. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carbaugh, she was graduated from Gettysburg high school in 1944 and last year attended the Indiana State Teachers' college. At present she is employed as secretary to Dean Dorothy G. Lee at Gettysburg college. During two years of her high school career, she was a student assistant in the school library.

POLICE, ARMY COMB LONDON FOR DESERTERS

By BARTON D. PATTIE

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—An "army" of military and civilian police early today concluded an unprecedented city-wide manhunt in an effort to apprehend 10,000 American, British and Canadian army deserters and smash a record crime wave.

Striking suddenly at 8 p. m., 2,000 London policemen aided by military police of three nations, estimated by one newspaper at about 6,000, sealed metropolitan London in a gigantic dragnet and combed the city with the precision of a military invasion.

The check continued until day-break when police stations were jammed with hundreds of persons unable to satisfy officials as to their identity. Newsmen, checking the arrests, reported from 500 to 800 persons had been brought in during the first five hours of the roundup.

Traffic Stalled
Searchers blocked the principal artery streets and bridges, then swooped down on London's theaters, restaurants, bars, night clubs, hotels, railway stations and other night gathering spots.

The net was drawn tightest in the area around Piccadilly Circus, London's "Times Square." Traffic chaos gripped that busy sector as police swept in on hundreds of vehicles and poured out of subway entrances.

Street traffic and pedestrians were halted. All persons were required to produce identity cards. Those who could were given printed forms to display and were permitted to continue.

During the search streets were blocked by curious crowds following police as they made door to door checks. In an effort to discourage these bystanders, police several times turned on them and subjected them to identity checks.

Code Name "Dragnet"
Thirty jeeps roared in formation to the front of one of London's largest dance halls. M.P.'s quickly covered all entrances, while police went inside. The music stopped, and 2,000 dancers lined up against the wall. In some clubs dancing continued while plainclothes men moved quietly about the floor questioning the dancers.

The search, given the code name of "dragnet," was so secret that participating policemen and M.P.'s were not briefed by their officers until a few minutes before "zero hour."

President Thomas introduced Penrose Myers, Baltimore street jeweler, as the oldest individual depositor at the First National and said he had been banking there for the past 69 years.

Mr. Thomas also discussed the banking business, stating that the last year had been marked by great increases in deposits and in liquid assets generally. "The First National, topping the national average, now has 85 percent of its assets in cash and government bonds," he said. He noted a slight change in the trend of loans and spoke of the approach of a system of "pooled lending" in this county by the member banks of the county association. He spoke specially of the contribution of the banks to the successful prosecution of the war.

The evening's program concluded with a solo, "Jesu Bambino," by Mrs. Derck and "Trinity Chimes" by Mrs. Kinsey.

Sanctuary Lamp To Be Memorial Gift

The Third Sunday in Advent will be observed with appropriate services at St. James Lutheran church on Sunday.

At the 10:30 service in the morning the congregation will receive a gift to be used in the regular worship services of the church. The gift, a sanctuary lamp, is a memorial to Nan Eicholtz Dellinger. The donors are: Vinnie L. Eicholtz, Mrs. Lester D. Craley and Miss Edna E. Eicholtz, sisters of Mrs. Dellinger; Monroe J. Dellinger, her husband, and Miss Maude Whiteleather, a friend.

The sanctuary lamp has a two-fold symbolism as a reminder of the sacrifice Christ made when he entered the earthly life on Christmas Day and then after 33 years died for the sins of the world on Calvary's cross and as a reminder of the sacrifice made by American boys during the war to preserve democracy for the world.

The pastor, Dr. Ralph R. Gresh, will receive this gift at the altar and perform the rite of consecration.

BEVIN DELAYED ON MOSCOW TRIP

Moscow, Dec. 15 (AP)—Preparations were completed for the opening of the "Big Three-Foreign Ministers" Conference today, but a raging blizzard threatened to delay the arrival of British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

There was no word on whether Bevin would attempt to make the flight from Berlin today, but British officials said that, in view of the experiences of U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes in the storm yesterday, it was doubtful if Bevin would take any chances.

This would mean that the British foreign secretary might not arrive until Sunday or later if the blizzard continued and it would consequently mean a postponement of the conference. Up to this morning, however, there had been no official statement as to when the meeting would start.

Byrnes, who arrived here late yesterday after his plane was lost for an hour in the storm, spent the night at Spasso House, the residence of the American ambassador, where he conferred with his staff and made last-minute preparations for the talks.

Foreign observers here felt that several issues already have taken definite shape. Conceding that the question of controlling atomic energy will be the main issue, observers pointed to Iran and Japan—in the light of recent developments—as subjects which appeared likely to come up for discussion.

Fall Of Tabriz Is Feared Near

Tehran, Dec. 15 (AP)—A high government source said Friday that the fall of Tabriz, largest city in Iran's northwestern province of Azerbaijan, to rebellious tribesmen was imminent.

The announcement came as provincial Governor Bayat arrived in Tehran after a flight from the besieged city. Bayat said he had been forced to leave Tabriz by leaders of the movement for local autonomy.

The Iranian Garrison at Tabriz was surrounded by insurgent forces, a government official said, and was awaiting orders from Tehran to fight or surrender.

Official reports earlier in the week from the turbulent northwest province told of small skirmishes taking place there, although information has been scarce even since Iranian troops were turned back by a Russian commander southeast of Zenjan.

The official Russian explanation for not permitting government troops to enter the Soviet-occupied territory was that such a move might cause unnecessary bloodshed.

Meanwhile, Premier Ibrahim Hakim prepared to leave for Moscow for discussions with the Soviet government, and the ministry of foreign affairs appealed to Russia, Great Britain and the United States to withdraw their troops from Iran immediately.

CHILD'S BODY IS FOUND IN HOME IN 'KIDNAP' CASE

Chelsea, Mass., Dec. 15 (AP)—Discovery of the body of Tiny Ronald Carlan beneath a chest of drawers in the family home ended a 16-day hunt for the supposedly kidnapped child and resulted today in the 23-year-old mother being held on a charge of "suspicion of murder."

The infant was found yesterday when a special officer, making what police described as a last search of a combination dining and bedroom, detected a piece of blue cloth after he had opened wide the bottom drawer of a dresser. The body was bunched in a blue bunting suit.

Police Chief Charles Flinn quoted the mother, Mrs. James J. Carlan, wife of a navy machinist's mate, as saying that the six-months-old baby, reported missing November 28, actually died November 24 while she was attending a party in her mother-in-law's flat upstairs.

Invents Kidnap Story
The chief said that Mrs. Carlan maintained that she invented the kidnap story because she was "afraid people would say I neglected the child."

The kidnap report and subsequent demands for ransom touched off a search that led from the tenement districts of Chelsea to several Boston taverns and even to ping-pong, 90 miles away.

Police Lieutenant John Kirby said the mother would be arraigned in district court today after police had questioned her and her husband separately for several hours last night. Meanwhile authorities awaited an autopsy report from Medical Examiner William J. Brickley.

Husband Collapses

Carlan, 28, who returned from his station on the west coast to assist in the hunt for the child he had never seen, embraced his wife and told her he would "stick by you" before he left police headquarters in a state of collapse. He was placed in care of a physician.

State Police Lieutenant Michael J. Cullinane said that the young woman told this story:

She last saw Ronald alive about 7:30 p. m. on Saturday, November 24, when she went upstairs to her mother-in-law's party. She returned for a photograph and records about 10:30 p. m., observed the baby frothing from the mouth and tried to breathe life into him.

Received Ransom Demands

When she realized the infant was dead she returned to the party because she feared she would be missed. The affair broke up about midnight and about 5 a. m. she dressed the child in a blue bunting suit and hid the body beneath the bureau.

Fearing that people would say she neglected the child she placed his empty carriage across the street from the Carlan home on Tuesday and Wednesday, hoping that someone would report the baby missing.

A neighbor's child did report the empty carriage late Wednesday afternoon, November 28, and Mrs. Carlan notified police that the child had been "kidnaped."

During the height of the hunt eight telephone calls were received by the Carlans from persons reporting either that the child was in their possession or demanding ransom.

Japs Destroyed Crimes' Evidence

Tokyo, Saturday, December 15 (AP)—Joseph B. Keenan, who will prosecute Hideki Tojo and other Japanese leaders accused of launching the Pacific war, said today the Japanese have "destroyed, altered or secreted" documents which might establish the guilt of the men to be tried.

"The men we are going to try, or their friends, had many days in which to act before our troops landed," Keenan declared. "Documents have been destroyed, altered or secreted."

To aid the prosecution, Keenan plans to send Otto Lowe, of Cape Charles, Va., a member of his staff, to Germany to obtain any documents used in European trials which might bear on the Japanese trials. The latter hearings are expected to begin about February 1.

Keenan commented: "It is a different situation here than in Germany. There the Nazi government was stubborn to the end and when it cracked there was no government to destroy documents that pointed to the guilt of the men now being tried there."

Hershey Bears At St. Louis Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

Buffalo and Pittsburgh get their big chance this week-end to oust the front-running Hershey Bears and Indianapolis Caps from the divisional leads of the American hockey league.

The Bisons, trailing in the eastern half by only one point, invade Cleveland tonight while the Bears, away from home on a Saturday for the first time all season, must trade checks at St. Louis with the Flyers who have won their last three starts.

Then tomorrow night Hershey comes to Buffalo where the Bisons shut them out, 4-0, in early season. The Bears got even, 7-1, at home later and this will be their third meeting.

Indianapolis, shellacked by the last place New Haven entry, 9-3, in their last out, play at Pittsburgh tonight and then entertain the improving St. Louis six tomorrow night, while the Hornets will be playing at New Haven.

The Adams county ladies encountered little opposition in gaining a 35-9 decision.

In the feature game the East Berlin boys trailed throughout to drop a 35-25 decision. Sprowell was top scorer with 16 tallies.

The East Berlin reserves lost 19-12.

NEW ELIGIBILITY RULES ADOPTED BY MID-ATLANTIC

(By The Associated Press)

Philadelphia, Dec. 15 (AP)—Fairly flexible post-war eligibility rules have been adopted by the Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic Conference which draws its annual meeting to a close here today.

The group passed a resolution favoring "rules sufficiently lenient to be fair to all returning servicemen and at the same time be sufficiently strict to correct abuses." The resolution was proposed in a report by Asa Bushnell, executive secretary of the central office for Eastern Intercollegiate athletics.

Bushnell's report on eligibility rules which the group approved called for:

1. Immediate reaffirmation of all amateur rules.

2. During period between new and fall of 1946 continued suspension of other eligibility rules.

3. Resumption in fall of 1946 of the following additional eligibility rules: (a) one year residence rule; (b) three-year varsity participation rule (four years allowed for athletes who compete in varsity sports as freshmen; any competition whatsoever constitutes a season);

4. Resumption in fall of 1947 of the freshman rule;

5. From fall of 1946 to fall of 1947 (subject to renewal then) suspension of one-year residence rule for all veterans (one matriculation only allowed; after then one year residence rule applies).

Just Folks

BOW-TIE COMPLAINT
All sorts of striking ties are planned for us peculiar bow-tie men. But little's done (I's truth I pen) For us peculiar bow-tie men.

Because we are a minor lot, They deem us to the polka dot And remnants of the solid hues, From which a lifetime we must choose.

The brothers of the four-in-hand Have endless choices at command, But bow-tie wearers, weak of voice, From ancient stock must make a choice.

"Bow tie?" the clerk says. "We've a few! But nothing different or new." Upon his thumb he shapes a knot, With: "Here's a lovely polka dot!"

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
THE HAPPY LIFE A CONTEST

The easy jobs grow fewer and fewer as the skill and intelligence of a human being grows and becomes enriched. The surgeon gets a big fee for a half hour or so of skillful work, but that pay covers years of study, research, observation and vast experience.

The happy life is a contest to do every job in life better and better. We are inspired to excel as we see others about us excel. Pride in one's work creates a desire in the mind to do everything attempted to the very best of one's ability.

I talked with an official recently whose product is sold around the world. A new company has recently given it competition, and I inquired about this. My friend told me that his older concern is so saturated with high character and ideal business principles that this newer concern really gives it small competition. Their ideals of business procedure are too much the opposite.

A contest, however, between two concerns, two men, or two athletic teams, of equal integrity, is always an interesting and absorbing adventure.

Each one of our individual lives is a contest—a contest against ourselves. In the Metropolitan Museum of New York is one of the great marble sculptures in the world—a masterpiece done by George Grey Barnard. It is called "Two Natures" and represents the contest of a man between his better and more sordid self. There is a tremendous lesson in its silent and beautiful construction.

I doubt that any of us would be happy did we not make our life a constant contest from beginning to end.

I like all athletic contests because there is a friendly contest between those engaged. And they are wholesome. They teach character, fair dealing, and good sportsmanship. It is a healthy sign when a nation goes in for a multitude of athletic contests. The revival of the Olympic games was a fine thing for the world, and their continuation in peacetime will do much to create good will.

Grange Opposes Draft In Peace

Clearfield, Pa., Dec. 15 (P)—The Pennsylvania State Grange, with some 1,000 members present from all parts of the state, Thursday adopted a resolution opposing military conscription in peacetime.

The Grange also voted to change the starting date of its annual meeting from the second Tuesday in December to the fourth Tuesday in October.

Reasons given for the change were: (1) roads became bad in December making travel to the meeting hazardous, and (2) resolutions adopted at December meetings had to be held 11 months before they could be presented to the national body, which meets in November.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

TEN YEARS AGO
Miss Elizabeth Boyer Wins $250 in Cash as Campaign's Big Prize: Gettysburg and Adams county's "BETTER BUSINESS CAMPAIGN" is ended.

The holder of the lucky number, Miss Elizabeth Boyer, Arendtsville, won $250 in cash as the campaign's big prize. K. L. Hankey, of York Springs, won the second cash award of $100 and Walter L. Reynolds, of Gettysburg, won $75 at the drawing held here on Saturday night at the Hotel Gettysburg annex.

The winners of the $25 cash awards were Mrs. Fred Grego, Gettysburg, R. 2; Mrs. Isaac Kemper, Gettysburg, R. 2, and F. M. Bream, of Biglerville.

College Grad Marries Local Girl on Saturday: Miss Christine E. Meyer, daughter of Mrs. J. H. Meyer, Baltimore street, was married Saturday evening to Edward J. Nowicki, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Nowicki, of Easthampton, Long Island. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. T. Sutcliffe, in the parsonage of Trinity Lutheran church, Taneytown. The attendants were Miss Dorothy Meyer and John Renshaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Nowicki will reside in Rahway, New Jersey.

Luther I. Sachs Given Contract to Construct New High School Annex: Luther I. Sachs was awarded the contract for the construction of a nine-room addition and a new gymnasium at the Gettysburg high school building by the board of education at a special meeting Friday evening. Mr. Sachs' bid was $4,074 lower than that of the next lowest bidder.

The PWA office has 30 days in which to approve or reject the board's recommendations. Work will start five days after the contracts are signed.

Xmas Party Held Monday: The first Christmas party held by Queen of Peace Council of the Pennsylvania Catholic Beneficial league, brought the largest attendance of members in many years to the regular meeting of the council in the Knights of Columbus rooms, center square, Monday evening.

The committee in charge of the party consisted of Miss Mary Ramer, Miss E. Ruth Hamilton, Mrs. Rebecca Martin, Mrs. Russel Smiley, Mrs. Wilbur Stallsmith, Miss Mary Little, Mrs. Emma Little and Mrs. Charles T. Jacobs.

3,000 Persons Pack Auditorium: Twenty-six Gettysburg and Adams county amateur performers scored decided hits Monday evening in the Hotel Gettysburg annex at the fourth and final drawing for merchandise awards in the "Better Business Campaign" being conducted by 72 participating merchants.

Sam Kirkpatrick, Gettysburg college, won first prize with his clever imitations. Colleen Thompson, Carlisle street, won second prize with her tap dancing. Joe Penn, South Washington street, won third prize with his tap dancing, jiggling and clogging.

Recruit Enters Coast Guard: Fred Albert Basehore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther H. Basehore, of Seven Stars, has been selected as one of 19 members of the United States Navy to enter the preparatory school for the Coast Guard service at Norfolk, Virginia.

Couple Marries in Westminster: Miss Eleanor Alice Hershey, East Middle street, and William H. Ridinger, East Middle street, were married on Saturday evening at Westminster, Maryland, by the Rev. Paul Quay, pastor of Grace Lutheran church.

Mr. Ridinger is employed at the furniture factory.

Farm Credit Union May Incorporate: Notice is being given that an application will be made to Governor George H. Earle Monday, for the incorporation of the Adams County Farm Credit Union, under an act of Assembly, approved May 28, 1933.

Personal: Mr. and Mrs. David Gilbert, of Harrisburg, spent the week-end at their apartment on Carlisle street.

As many a driver is discovering there is as yet no automatic device for shifting responsibility.

The joker in a lot of service effort these days on the part of hurried motorists is believing that "checking" electrical connections is a process of "feeling" them. You simply can't tell about connections in this way. For an effective check-up it is necessary to use a low reading voltmeter. To test the generator cutout, for instance, you start up the engine, and then put the voltmeter prod on the generator side of the cutout and the handle prod on the nearest ground. Without depressing the switch button at the side of the voltmeter gradually speed up the engine. Cutout points should close when the needle reads between 7 and 7.5 volts.

Mighty Poor Lighting
If you are inclined to doubt the voltage loss through poor connections, and the long travel of current through the light switch, ammeter, dimmer switch, etc., just consider these facts:

Suppose with voltage of 6.2 at the headlights you get 32 candlepower output from the lamps. With a voltage drop to 5.8 you'd get only 25 candlepower output. At a voltage of 5.4 this headlight output drops to 20 C.P. On some cars the voltage checks only 5 volts at the headlights. This drops the light intensity to 14 C.P.

Such a condition is largely overcome by the use of relays, or boosters. They provide a direct current to the lights, the regular circuit serving merely to close the relay switch.

I have just received some extremely interesting data from the Commissioner of Motor Vehicle Maintenance of the City of Cleveland, Ohio, which ought to make all of us sit up and take notice. The general assumption has been that most of the sludging of engines during the war was due to low grade gasoline and too much low speed, short run driving. It was assumed that the oil did not have much to do with this condition, although lubricant was not beyond suspicion.

Now the sludge problem is back in Cleveland's city cars again, and Commissioner Ralph J. McAllister suspects the oil. Previously, and during the war, he had had surprisingly good results from a special oil which met nine specific requirements and which costs more. I look to see the whole subject of lubricating oils, and additives, brought right out into the open for careful scrutiny.

"It may interest you to know that your car's engine operates under three levels of voltage. When you are cranking the engine, with the starter motor in action, voltage for ignition purposes may fall down to 4 volts or thereabouts. Then when the engine starts, and before the charging rate is high enough to bring the generator into action the voltage for the ignition rises to the normal six.

"Now comes the next level. When the engine speeds up for action, and the generator comes into the picture, voltage may run up to 8 volts. It is the purpose of the voltage regulator device to prevent voltage from getting high enough to cause any damage."

Best Way To Thaw
Thawing out a radiator can be done in various ways but about the most risky is trying to keep the engine running. The danger lies in the possibility that water around the block will boil and evaporate long before there is any circulation through the radiator. Safest plan is to have the car towed to a heated garage. Here the business of thawing out can be hastened by pouring hot water on the lower part of the radiator.

There seems to be considerable misunderstanding regarding the purpose of second gear on modern cars, and little consideration for the fact that second is not what it used to be. Actually the modern second is a high speed gear for use in fast traffic work or when a hill is a little steep for the load carried. You can go faster in second on some hills than in high, which is a far cry from the view of second as a mere climbing gear. It is bad business these days to fall back into second after the engine has slowed down and is faltering in high. By that time you need to drop into low.

I still favor a rule once set down by A. L. Dyke who said a long while back, "The secret of successful hill climbing is to keep your engine running a little faster at all times than its work requires it to run."

That hard steering in cold weather may be due to failure to use a lighter lubricant in the steering gear housing.

That you can usually "feel" a squeak in a shackle bolt by putting one of your fingers against the bolt. While someone is rocking the car up and down vibration should be quite evident.

That an engine may detonate if operated on lower octane fuel even though you may not hear the usual "ping." One tipoff is that the engine will operate at a higher temperature.

Useful In A Pinch

Snow that clings to the windshield and the back window can be as annoying as ice, and quite as dangerous. An old remedy may come in handy here. It is to wipe the windshield and rear glass with solution of two ounces of glycerine and one of water and a dram of salt. This should be applied with a piece of cheesecloth, wiping up and down.

Don't forget the trick of covering the windshield with two pieces of thin cardboard, one under each wiper blade, when you leave the car parked out in a freezing rain.

Several weeks ago we were talking about the custom of putting the engine's oil intake and screen well behind in the crankcase so that when the car is headed uphill there will always be oil for the pump to draw. This needs some further explanation in order that various other arrangements can be considered.

A clever way to get around the difficulty imposed by up and down travel of the car is to locate the oil intake at the middle of the engine but to use an oil pan that covers but two-thirds of the engine's bottom. This pan is tilted toward the front even when the crankcase may be tilted rearward. Thus the oil stays rather level in the oil pan even when the engine is tipped well to the rear.

A disadvantage to this plan is that if the engine is at all over-filled with oil, or diluted, there will be whipping of some of it by the rear rods when the car is headed uphill. That causes foaming and lubrication trouble.

NEW PASSENGER CAR TIRE

COMING SOON! NEW B. F. GOODRICH TIRE THAT OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES

THIS isn't a guess. A new kind of tire has been developed, and tests show that it outwears prewar passenger car tires.

It is made of a new kind of synthetic rubber developed by B. F. Goodrich—different from the ordinary synthetic rubber in general use by the tire industry. It helps the new tire run cooler—wear better.

The new tire has had more than 2,000 laboratory tests. Taxicab fleets, state police departments and the B. F. Goodrich test fleet have run it 16,800,000 test miles. Not only does it give longer tread wear than prewar tires, but it has more resistance to bruising or damage from accident.

A new, slightly different shaped tread—we call it the "road level" tread—is another feature that means longer wear. Engineers had wished for years to make a tread just slightly flatter. But that more desirable shape always set up strains in the tire body, or "carcass," as it is called. B. F. Goodrich developed an entirely new and stronger cotton cord, designed it into a 35% stronger carcass that stands all these strains and permits the use of the new flatter, longer-wearing tread.

The tread design is new. It is made up of hundreds of skid-resisting curves for quicker stops, surer starts—safer driving.

In a few weeks these new tires will begin to be produced in large volume, but supplies may be limited for quite a while. We have placed our order, and hope to have our shipment shortly. Watch for our announcement. And in the meantime, take good care of the tires you have—make them last until you can replace them with these new, better B. F. Goodrich Silvertowns.

tor head of my car I find plain evidence of burning from segment to segment as if high tension current had been arcing across. Does this indicate a defective head? N. M. F.

A. Not necessarily. Moisture from sweating will do this. Also a defective spark plug will cause current to jump to the adjacent segment and thence to the clamp where it can ground.

Q. Why did free wheeling represent such a saving in engine oil?

I thought it was merely for saving gas. Wm. L. T.

A. Much oil is wasted in ordinary driving by sudden closing of the throttle. Oil then is encouraged to suck up into the cylinders where it burns off. In free wheeling this effect is lessened.

Q. Is there any way to tell if valve tappet clearances are not sufficient, without an actual test with a feeler gauge? W. M. B.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY

One of the greatest star combinations of all time, Humphrey Bogart and Ann Sheridan, will be back on the screen Monday when Warner Bros. re-release, "It All Came True," opens at the Majestic Theatre for a return engagement.

The story relates the adventures of a group of quiet characters in a New York boarding house whose complacent lives are thrown into an uproar when a gangster decides to use their house as a hideout. Also featured in the film are Jeffrey Lynn, Zasu Pitts, Una O'Connor, Jesse Busley and John Littel.

WEDNESDAY

Zestful entertainment is packed into Universal's "Shady Lady," Wednesday's attraction at the Majestic theatre. Night life in Chicago is colorfully displayed in the new production which co-stars Charles Coburn, Ginny Simms and Robert Paige. George Wagner was the producer-director.

The original screenplay, an exciting slice of movie fiction, deals with the sly maneuverings of an elegant card-sharp.

THURSDAY

A vivid story of two highspirited women who outwit the German Gestapo, "Paris Underground" appears at the Majestic Thursday.

Taken from the book by Etta Shiber, it is the tale of a resourceful American girl and her British friend trapped in the sudden occupation of Paris by the Germans. Constance Bennett and Gracie Fields co-star as the scintillating Kitty de Mornay and Emmeline Quayle, her British companion.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Eddie Bracken and Veronica Lake who are co-starred in "Hold That Blonde."

Eddie Bracken and Veronica Lake are co-starred in a new Paramount comedy, "Hold That Blonde" which is due to arrive next Friday at the Majestic theatre.

The story concerns the dilemmas arising out of the fact that Bracken, a millionaire's son, suffers from kleptomania—a most embarrassing affliction. When he falls in love with Veronica, an unwilling jewel thief, hilarious complications develop.

SANTA And The WHITE BUNNYCHAPTER 10*David Climbs the Rainbow

Before the deer had come to a stop David slid from his back and ran into the wondrous pool of color. Warm it was and beautiful and if David had had but one wish in all the world it would have been that his sister Mary might have been there to see with him the start of the rainbow.

Now, quickly, he clasped his hands around the bow and pulled himself up. But what a task! For every twelve inches up, he slid six inches back down. His hands ached with the pulling. After a long while he raised his head to see how far he had yet to go. And that was when he saw the funny little man who sat astride the bow.

The boy stayed perfectly still and stared. And while he stared the little man pushed his peaked hat to the back of his head and wiped his face with a purple-spotted handkerchief.

"It makes me perspire just to watch you," he said with a sigh. "For goodness sake wrap your knees around the bow and use your legs to push with."

David did as he was told and instantly the ache went out of his hands and arms. He grinned shamefacedly and said, "I never thought of that. I was in too much of a hurry, I guess."

"So," said the man, stretching out on the rainbow as easily as you might on a feather bed. "And where are you in such a hurry to get to?" "Well, please," said David politely. "Tell me first—who are you?" "Oh," replied the man nonchalantly. "I am the Keeper of the Rainbow."

"Well, then," explained David, who by this time had learned never to be astonished at anything. "I am going to get a star."

The Rainbow Keeper was silent for a moment. Then he sighed and said, "It isn't my business to know your reason for wanting a star but I should tell you that stars are not to be played with."

"Oh, I didn't want—" began David hastily.

But the little man interrupted him. "In fact, you must never, never look on a star except from the earth. If you look at one close up something terrible could happen!" David gasped. "No one told me that!" he said.

"No one knows," replied the Keeper. "That is one of the reasons I am here."

"But—I must get one," cried David frantically. "I—"

"If you must," said the little man, "Then go ahead. But keep your eyes closed and when you reach a star—wrap it in this handkerchief and do not look at it—ever." He gave David his purple spotted handkerchief. "Hurry now for the stars are beginning to pop out and very soon the rainbow will fade away."

Then he moved aside and David thanked him and climbed past. He closed his eyes and pushed with his legs and pulled with his arms for what seemed hours until at last he could feel the arch flattening out and he knew that he had reached the top.

Never has anyone been so tempted as David now was tempted to open his eyes. He screwed them tight and he ached with the effort. Then he got carefully to his knees and felt above his head. Nothing. He felt to the right and to the left. But there was nothing.

He sat back to get his breath and then he cried out for he had sat right on a star! He felt it carefully. It didn't have five points. It felt more like a rock—as large as his fist—but it must be a star, he knew.

He wrapped it carefully in the purple spotted handkerchief and put it in his pocket.

Then with a shout, he stretched out his legs, pushed once with his heels, and went zooming down the rainbow towards the earth.

(Tomorrow: David Goes to the Mermaid Isle.)

Woman Dies At 102; 'Enjoyed Living'

Linesville, Pa., Dec. 15—(Aunt Polly) Everitt, who told her friends, "I enjoy living," died Thursday at the age of 102.

High point in Mrs. Everitt's late years was her 100th birthday in June, 1943, when she received a congratulatory message from Franklin D. Roosevelt. Relatives took her for a car ride that day.

Her mind continued active to the end. Not long ago she told companions: "I enjoy my friends and like to have folks come to see me. I enjoy everything—my food, my rest, my flowers and my family."

Harrisburg, Dec. 15 (P)—Christmas spirit will be brought under the capitol dome with a tree-lighting ceremony and carols next Monday.

Mrs. Edward Martin, wife of the Governor, will switch on the gaily-colored lights which festoon a huge Christmas tree in the rotunda, and massed choirs will sing on the balconies overlooking the tree.

The holiday for departments under the Governor's jurisdiction will extend from 5 p. m. Friday, Dec. 21, to 8:30 a. m. the following Wednesday. The treasury and auditor general's office usually conform with the schedule for the bulk of capitol workers but have not yet announced their plans.
